Wednesday Sets Record In New York; Deaths Are Reported

Circleville sweltered Thursday as a heat wave that covered the entire nation continued. High humidity and temperature readings that passed the 90-degree mark continued. Forecasts, however, were for thundershowers and slightly cooler Thursday night and Friday.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4 — Cooling breezes brought relief to the Midwest today from sweltering heat and high humidity which has kept temperatures close to 90 degrees for four days.

Heavy showers broke a heat wave in the Plains states yesterday. Temperatures in the Great Lakes region dropped from five to 10 degrees under strong breezes which moved over Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin.

U. S. Forecaster H. A. Downs said the day's maximum temperature in Chicago would be about 80. The high yesterday was 91.

May Be Cooler He predicted much cooler weather for Lake areas, Michigan, Missouri, Iowa, and Kansas, but slightly warmer temperatures for Minnesota, the Dakotas and Nebraska.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—(UP)—Millions of New Yorkers faced the discouraging forecast of another heat record today, the eleventh day of high temperatures and excessive humidity.

Yesterday was the hottest Aug. 3 ever recorded by the weather bureau. The mid-day reading was 92.7 degrees, which also exceeded the previous high for this year by 2.7 degrees.

The weather bureau cautiously said there was just a chance—no rush promises—that cooler weather was lingering far off to the Northwest and might ride in on a low-pressure trough by Saturday.

The heat caused Col. B. B. Somervell, U. P. A. administrator, to send home some 3,000 administrative employees after 1 p. m. yesterday.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 43—(UP)—Northern Ohio still simmered in the hottest weather of the summer today, but hopes were high for cooling thundershowers before tonight.

Cleveland's mean temperature yesterday was 82, its high 90. Weather bureau officials pointed out that while the mercury rose to 91 on July 8, the average temperature (Continued on Page Four)

They Have Reason to Smile

APPARENTLY dead for nearly hour after stifling in his blankets on the back seat of the family automobile, Robert Didier, three-month-old son of Mrs. Margaret Didier of Chicago, was brought back to life by artificial respiration and adrenalin injected into his heart by physicians. ## Pearl White, Heroine Of Serials, Dead in Paris

PARIS, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Pearl White, star of the early motion pictures, died today at the American hospital.

The blonde beauty who thrilled millions of people all over the world by her adventures in such movie serials as "The Perils of Pauline," "The Exploits of Elaine," and "The Mysteries of Paris," had retired on the fortune she made as one of the great all time stars of the motion picture industry.

SCOUTS AND WAR VETERANS HUNT LOST GOLF 'PRO'

LIMA, Aug. 2—(UP)—A searching party of 200 Boy Scouts and 100 war veterans today beat through countryside adjoining the Springbrook Country Club in the hope of finding Stanley Fisher, 22-year-old golf professional who had been missing since Monday night.

Sheriff William V. Daley believed Fisher may have been kidnapped or killed by men who robbed him. There was evidence of a struggle in the club's caddy house, Fisher's empty purse was found outside, and his automobile was missing.

Private detectives have been retained by Prosecutor Robert F. Jones.

Friends of Fisher pointed out that he was of exceptionally good character and probably would not have left voluntarily. They feared he had been slain and his body secreted. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fisher and his father is a railroad conductor.

RICKING OF BALED STRAW BEGINS AT C. C. A. PLANT

Ricking baled straw at the Container Corporation plant is under way and will continue until about Oct. 1. To date about 1,000 tons of straw have been purchased. Straw is obtained within a radius of 50 miles of Circleville. The amount to be ricked this year has not been determined, officials said.

Germans Protest Czech Planes Over Nazi Area

Minister to Prague Demands Punishment for Crews Attempting to Photograph Glatz, 12 Miles from Frontier

CRISIS BETWEEN NATIONS TIGHTENS

Hitler's Newspaper Warns That Practice of Playing with Peace Evidence of "Unparalleled Unscrupulousness"

BERLIN, Aug. 4—(UP)—Germany protested vigorously to Czechoslovakia today against an alleged incursion of German territory by a Czechoslovak airplane, the semi-official D. N. B. news agency reported.

The agency reported yesterday from Glatz, 12 miles from the Czechoslovak frontier, that two Czech planes circled about the town for some time. Attempts by the crews of the planes to photograph Glatz were observed, the agency said.

"The German minister to Prague protested sharply to the Prague government," today's announcement said, "and demanded the punishment of those responsible for the intentional flight over the German frontier by Czech planes."

The press was aroused by the latest Czechoslovak-German incident, increasing the tension between the two countries over the minority problem.

Party Organ Quoted "The people in Prague are playing the most wanton game with European peace," the Volkischer Beobachter, organ of the Nazi party, charged. "This playing with the fire reveals unparalleled unscrupulousness. The plan is to create new complications at the moment when the British adviser (Viscount Runciman) comes to Prague and conduct negotiations in a dangerous war atmosphere."

"Runciman will be able to see for himself in what spirit the Czechs are starting the conversations—in the spirit of increased hostility towards the minorities and with a policy of provocation against the Reich which is being pushed forward with unparalleled cynicism inspired by the insane idea that Europe has no other task but to let herself be sacrificed on the altar of Czech megalomania."

James H. McCormick, 60, Wellston, was burned to death in his automobile on state route 139, three miles Northeast of Jackson. Coroner Charles Gaskill was unable to determine what started the fire but believed McCormick had fainted. He was subject to fainting spells.

Robert Lee Morgan, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morgan of Cincinnati, was killed by an automobile. Homer Leach, 40, of near Chillicothe, died of injuries received when struck by a ram on his farm. In another farm accident, Billy Hensley, 14, Lexington, Ky., was crushed to death when a tractor he was operating went into a ditch on his uncle's property.

William Smith, 64, was killed by a passenger train at Cincinnati. Brother Francis Breit, Somerset, died in a Hillsboro hospital of injuries received when an automobile struck a tree.

CHINESE FORCES FALL BACK AS JAPS ADVANCE

SHANGHAI, Aug. 4 — (UP)—The Chinese fought grimly in the blistering heat of the upper Yangtze valley today, slowly falling back toward Hankow under a rain of Japanese bombs before sharp infantry attacks.

Chinese authorities admitted the loss of several strategic towns within the outer defense ring of Hankow, but they were determined to defend the provisional capital to the end.

The government had officially abandoned Hankow to continue in Chungking, 600 miles farther up the Yangtze river. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and his military advisers remained behind, however, to command the defense.

It appeared to foreign observers that the Japanese intended to blast their way to the provisional capital by aerial bombings. Many new airplanes from Japan were shipped through Shanghai to the front.

Japanese planes bombed almost every section around Hankow still being defended.

CARS COLLIDE IN BRIDGE 11 MILES WEST OF CITY

No one was hurt Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. when autos driven by F. A. Boland, 46, of 534 Seymour avenue, Columbus, and Emanuel Hundley, 23, York street, were involved in a collision on Route 56 about 11 miles west of Circleville. The cars collided in a narrow bridge, the sheriff's department reported.

INTIMIDATION OF AGE PENSIONERS FOUND IN PROBE

Tour of 35 Counties Made By Kennedy's Assistant; "Deplorable," He Says

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4 — (UP)—Wide-spread intimidation of old age pensioners in connection with the forthcoming primary election was reported here today by James Welker, an investigator in the office of Secretary of State William J. Kennedy, following a tour of 35 counties.

"There is no doubt old age pensioners have been intimidated by employees of the Division of the Aid for the Aged and the highway department," Welker said. "Many were told that if they did not vote for Governor Davey they would lose their pensions."

Welker termed the state-wide condition as "deplorable." He said conditions were particularly bad in Athens, Aichland and Gallia counties.

"My investigation in Athens

DAVEY IN CITY Governor Davey was scheduled to speak from the courthouse steps at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon. He was to come to Circleville from Delaware.

county disclosed that the board of election had received four applications for a disabled voter's ballot from one person," Welker stated.

Investigators Framed Welker said an Athens county prosecutor had been assigned a special agent to investigate conditions and that the board of elections had employed two others. George Neffner, election expert in the Secretary of State's office, said the latest county to report trouble among the pensioners was Warren county. An investigator may be sent there to aid local authorities.

Pension Checks May Be Delayed

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4 — (UP)—Joseph T. Ferguson, state auditor, announced today that August checks to Old Age pensioners may not be issued promptly.

"It is impossible at present to say whether the checks will be mailed on time as the balance in the liquor control rotary fund is only a little over $700,000 and is needed badly to pay administrative expenses and to meet bills for liquor purchases."

Ferguson warned against borrowing money from the general revenue fund to pay the pensioners. M. Ray Allison, state finance director, scoffed at reports the pension checks would be delayed.

"All pension payments will be met on time," Allison said. "The liquor rotary fund is in sound condition. Borrowing from the general revenue fund to meet temporary deficits has been done in the past and is authorized specifically by the legislature."

"MOTHER" CLARK RESIGNS MARSH FOUNDATION POST

"Mother" Clark coached athletics in Circleville many years ago when John G. "Doggy" Ward, Frank Davis and others helped make Circleville outstanding on the football field.

NEW YORK READY TO GREET DOUG ON RETURN HOME

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—(UP)—Douglas Corrigan returns today from Ireland to a riotous hero's welcome.

When he took off from Floyd Bennett field last month the attendants thought he was crazy for risking his neck in an attempt to fly to California in his $900 nine year old plane. When he reaches quarantine station the liner Manhattan today he will think that everybody else is crazy.

A dozen screaming boats, loaded to the gunwales with thousands of screaming passengers, will surround his ship. They will be divided into two hostile navies, one side yelling at him to come to Brooklyn borough first, the other to Manhattan.

He will see 200 Corrigan's aboard one ship; 1,000 other Irishmen aboard another, fighting to the end for Brooklyn though that borough's official reception committee had attempted to end three days of strife by stepping aside and letting Manhattan have Corrigan first.

Unless their boat is rammed in the rush, the 300 members of the Manhattan committee, headed by James McCurrin, head of the American Irish historical societies, will accompany the Manhattan from quarantine to the Manhattan dock and take Corrigan off there. Then they will take him to a hotel and keep him there until Friday noon, when the ticker tape parade on Broadway and the official welcome from Mayor F. H. LaGuardia are scheduled.

COUNCIL CONFAB BRIEF

The heat was blamed for a short session of city council Wednesday evening. Councilmen finished their session in about an hour, a short period in comparison with other regular meetings. Two members, Frank Lynch and John Neudt, were absent.

Moscow Moves Sharpshooting Forces Southward; Danger Zone Quiet

TOKYO, Aug. 4 — (UP) — Japan tonight sought peace with Russia and cessation of clashes on the Siberian frontier which have brought both nations dangerously close to war.

A spokesman for the foreign office announced that Kenseuke Horinouchi, vice foreign minister, personally made proposals to Constantin Smetanin, Russian charge d'affaires, to halt hostilities.

Horinouchi asked Smetanin to transmit the proposals to Moscow and obtain a reply.

TOKYO, Aug. 4—(UP)—Japan will bring her air force into action on the Siberian frontier unless Russia ceases attacks, a war office spokesman said today.

So far, the spokesman said, Japanese planes had not been used in the clashes in the Chang-kung corner of the Siberia-Manchukuo-Korea frontier. "But the army's patience was limited, he added, and therefore it would use its own planes unless the Russians stopped their attacks."

An unofficial estimate was made today that since fighting began on the frontier last week Russia had lost 400 men killed and that 28 Russian tanks had been disabled.

Prince Fumimaro Konoye, the premier, conferred with Gen. Kazushige Ugaki, foreign minister, and Selhin Ikeda, finance minister, on the frontier situation. The war-time cabinet council conferred on the situation.

Protest Rejected

Kensuke Horinouchi, vice foreign minister, a former counsellor of the embassy at Washington, and former consul general at New York, received Constantin Smetanin, Russian charge d'affaires, this afternoon and rejected a new Russian protest against incidents on the frontier.

In turn, Horinouchi asked that Russia "reconsider" her own attitude.

War office and news agency dispatches said that the situation on the frontier was quiet this morning.

A war office communique said that Russians subjected the Lofu vicinity on the frontier to a trench mortar bombardment last night but since then there had been no action.

PUERTO RICANS ASK ROOSEVELT TO RUN AGAIN

SAN JUAN, P. R., Aug. 3—(UP)—Gustavo Jimenez Sicardo, Puerto Rican poet and dramatist, started a "third term for Roosevelt" movement today as an expression of the island's gratitude.

Puerto Rico does not participate in presidential elections although it has six votes in Democratic and Republican conventions. Jimenez said that Mr. Roosevelt was needed if Puerto Rico was to continue to prosper.

The project, which will cover 2,226 miles of the CCC highway, will cost $10,048.10. It must be completed not later than Nov. 15, 1938.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. Aug. 4—(UP)—Tennessee's Democratic primary decided today the political fate of Sen. George L. Berry, millionaire labor leader and rebellious New Dealer, and pitted Gov. Gordon Browning's state machine against Ed Crump's Memphis machine in one of the year's bitterest political fights.

Even before the voting started, the senate campaign expenditures committee had denounced the campaign as an exhibition of "gutter politics" and said that there probably would be a contest in the senate regardless of who won, and Governor Browning's state crime commission had ordered an investigation of the polling records in every precinct. Browning and Berry supported each other for renomination and Crump opposed them both. He supported Tom Stewart against Berry and Prentice Cooper against Browning.

Each side charged that the other was trying to steal the election.

Roy Wallace, a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, withdrew last night saying "the campaign is the most disgraceful I have ever known and I have found that both factions are not hesitating to use the most despicable, dirtiest methods imaginable."

Wallace formerly was state comptroller. He was running as an "independent" Democrat; that is he was without the support of either machine. The Democratic nomination is equivalent to election.

Enjoined by Federal Judge John D. Martin, a cousin of Crump, from placing national guardsmen at the Memphis polls as he had threatened to do, Browning sent in an unestimated number of state policemen. The Crump faction's sheriff, Guy Joyner, matched this maneuver by swearing in 150 special deputies.

Six agents of the senate committee were at work in the state on orders of Sen. David I. Walsh, D., Mass., who said that both sides appeared to have used money on a lavish scale and that coercion was widespread. In addition to Berry's race for nomination, the federal agents were concerned with congressional races. Sam D. McReynolds, chairman of the house foreign affairs committee, was opposed by Judge L. D. Miller of Chattanooga, and in the fifth district, Joseph W. Byrns, Jr., son of the late speaker of the house, sought the nomination over Rep. Richard M. Atkinson. McReynolds was blacklisted by the Committee for Industrial Organization but had the

Independents Urged To Cast Ballots in Primary

COLUMBUS, August 5—Peter H. Odegard, professor of political science at Ohio State University, endorsed the candidacy of Charles Sawyer, Democratic candidate for governor. Odegard said:

"As a Democrat I see but one issue in this campaign. It's this: do you want an administration whose hands are clean, a governor of character, courage and a determined will to public service? Or do you want two more years of the qualities which have dominated the state house for the last four? I have faith enough in the electorate to know they will choose the former."

"There were more than a million Ohio Democrats and 'independent' voters who turned to Roosevelt in 1936. Those men and women, if they want to see Ohio administered in a manner that will mean close cooperation with the Federal government in vital public affairs, ought to go to the polls next week and declare themselves for Sawyer."

"Remember this: the important thing is to get to the polls and vote. Remember, too, that the machine wants the independent voter to stay home. Bossism is the logical result of political indifference. There is only one way to control of your government—vote! Vote in August as well as November."

support of the national Democratic administration. Byrns campaigned as a 100 percent New Dealer.

MILLER TO SEEK
MORE MATERIAL FOR ROAD JOB

L. E. Miller, service director, will advertise for bids in the near future for more surfacing materials to treat streets being improved under P.W.A.

Council authorized Mr. Miller Wednesday night to advertise for furnishing and applying from 20,000 to 30,000 gallons of C. T. and 20,000 to 30,000 gallons of MT-1. Both materials are used for street improvements.

ANTI-LITTERING ORDINANCE HAS
SECOND READING

Council, Wednesday evening, gave the anti-littering ordinance to eliminate the distribution of handbills and other advertising matter in public places and in and on parked autos a second reading.

The ordinance is similar to one being considered in Chillicothe. Violators would face possible fines of $5 to $50. A vote on the legislation will be taken after a third reading.

L. E. Miller, service director, had urged that council pass legislation stopping the nuisance. His department has had difficulty keeping the streets cleaned of handbills and advertising materials.

FIREMEN CALLED TO TWO BLAZES WEDNESDAY EVE

Engine on Rear of Truck Becomes Ignited; Shed In Field Burns

TAR SUPPLY IS SAVED

$100 Lost as Produce and Gardening Equipment Is Destroyed

Two calls within two hours were received by Circleville firemen Wednesday evening.

The first call, about 7:30 o'clock was on S. Washington street. An engine on the rear of a tar truck owned by T. D. Van Camp, Columbus, caught fire. The engine is used to pump tar. Damage was slight. The truck contained about 300 gallons of tar. Firemen extinguished the flame before the tar ignited.

Firemen were called on N. Pickaway street near Pleasant street, about 9:30 o'clock when a shed owned by Pearl Brown, Watt street, was destroyed. The shed was on land owned by the Ruggles heirs.

Mr. Brown said the shed was used for storing produce and gardening equipment. He estimated the value of the building and equipment at $100. Cause of the fire is unknown. The fire truck could not be used due to the condition of the road leading from Pickaway street to the shed.

EIGHT TO TAKE PART IN MEN'S CAMP SESSIONS

Eight Pickaway countians have registered Thursday to attend the men's camp, Aug. 6 and 7, at the Ross-Hocking camp.

The camp session opens at noon on Aug. 6. It is open to any Pickaway county farmer. Farmers may go direct to the camp.

Those registered to attend are Lawrence Goodman, Jim and George Fischer, Jackson township; Lawrence Ater, Charles Rose, Charles Schleich and Roy Anderson, Deer Creek township; Ralph Bolender, Wayne township, and Robert Elsea, Circleville township.

STREET OILING CHARGE SCORED BY G. R. WALTERS

W. C. Morris, N. Court street, asked council Wednesday night to investigate an assessment made against the property of G. R. Walters on S. Pickaway street in 1922, 1923 and 1924 for street oiling. Mr. Walters is a resident of Columbus.

Mr. Morris said Mr. Walters does not believe it was a just claim. The street was later torn up and other assessments for the oiling were refunded, it was said.

Councilmen referred the question to the claims committee.

Didja ever get caught in a situation like that and say somethin' you thought was nice only to have it bounce back and skin your own knuckles?

For instance, my aunt was fishin' around and said to Uncle Slug "I'm pretty tired of hearin' you complain about my relations. Can't you think of anything nice to say about them?" Uncle Slug thought a minute and said "Well—yes, one thing . . . they were all opposed to our marriage."

Bee Keepers Say Year Excellent for Honey

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

Last year, our bee keepers tell us, was not much good for bee culture, farming, keeping, or whatever term you may care to use in the operation of an apiary. But this year, they say, has been an extra good one for bees to gather honey and store it away in large quantities. Harry Reese at So. Bloomfield has around 20 colonies and Dick Hedges forty of near the same village. And here in Ashville, Frank Tedrow has not less than ten stands. Mr. Hedges' bees have produced around 5000 pounds of fine honey, he said, the Reese colonies working in same proportions. The Tedrow apiary is in the building stage, starting last Spring with but a couple of swarms and is gradually making an increase by gathering in any stray or wild swarms that may happen along his way. He manufactures his own hives and other equipment, and in bee literature, he lets nothing get away. One of these bee keepers, think it was Mr. Hedges, told us that there is a wide difference in the working qualities of the many colonies he has. Some make double the amount of honey of others with the same size family. The boys tell us that bees are not nearly so hard to handle as most people believe.

Too busy yesterday to contact the head bosses over at the canner, but some of the "old reliables" told us that the early corn pack would be completed today and that it probably would be the middle of the coming week before the main crop would be ready to gather.

Rev. Walter Peters and wife were called to Georgetown, Brown county, Tuesday where the Reverend conducted the funeral services for Elsbey Kautz, a member of a former charge. Mr. Peters in telling us of his trip to that part of the state, said we had reasons to feel proud of the crops we have here, they being much better than in the section they visited . . . The Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. church will meet Friday afternoon at the home of Ira Scothorn . . . ## TAYLOR POPULAR

Paul Taylor's work as a radio choral director has brought him friendship with some of the greatest figures in the musical world. He spent two seasons directing choirs for Grace Moore, another with Nelson Eddy. He has worked many times with famed Conductor Werner Janssen. Among his several duties at present is furnishing background group music for Marion Talley.

But he is equally adept in light music. For two seasons he has been a regular on the Bing Crosby show and recently signed up for a third.

NON-FADING POSIES

How to accomplish a complete courtship with a single bouquet of roses will be explained by Philip Joffe of New York City, whose hobby is preserving flowers, on the broadcast of Dave Elman's "Hobby Lobby" over the NBC-Red network Sunday, August 7, at 6 p. m.

Others to lobby for their hobbies will be Donald Hurley of Little Falls, N. Y., who collects diamonds; Mary Booth of Salem Depot, N. H., who collects tape measures; Hilda Lenhart of Richmond, Va., who trains talking dogs, and Edward Rushford of Salem, Mass., who collects lighting fixtures.

Mr. Joffe has perfected a chemical solution which when applied to flowers preserves them permanently in their natural state. He figures that day will come when a bridal bouquet can be passed on from mother to daughter ad infinitum, and a boutonniere be expected to out-last a suit of clothes with two pairs of pants.

CHARLIE NEXT?

Dorothy Lamour was facing rehearsal microphone when she was suddenly stricken with appendicitis Saturday. She was rushed to the hospital, operated on, is doing nicely according to last minute reports. With Don Ameche recovering from an appendectomy in Holland, Charlie McCarthy is demanding an appendix clause in his contract!

The late Andrew Carnegie once remarked he would like to have these words for his epitaph: "Here lies a man who was smart enough to employ men who knew more than he."

TOKYO'S FOREIGN OFFICE DRAFTING PLEA TO SOVIET

that Russian infantry attacked the Japanese lines last night under a "bombardment" of star shells but were repulsed. (Star shells are used to light up the no man's land between trenches at night so that any prowling detachments may be made a target for machine gun and rifle fire.)

The Domei agency said also that there was no activity today.

But it was added that sharpshooters from the 40th Russian division were moving South from Novokievsk toward the frontier and that 60 Russian airplanes and 200 tanks were concentrated in the Novokievsk area.

There was a distinct, however temporary, peaceful atmosphere in Tokyo today despite talk of using planes against Russia.

It was reported that progress was made as a result of the talk between Vice Foreign Minister Horinouchi and Russian Charge D'Affairs Smetanin. A foreign office spokesman said that the talk indicated the possibility of a peaceful settlement.

Morinouchi and Smetanin were understood to have discussed the entire situation, and Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese ambassador at Moscow, and Russian Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov were due to have a similar talk at Moscow today.

There was considerable duplication and confusion in various communiques on the frontier fighting, it appeared, so that some clashes after being reported were reported again as if they were new ones.

TOWN STREET'S RESIDENTS ASK BETTER LIGHTS

Residents of Town street want more street lights.

Mayor W. B. Cady reported Wednesday evening that residents had asked him to submit the matter to council. It was explained that the distance between lights is so far that the street is very dark. Small reflector lights could be used in some of the dark sections, councilmen were told.

The mayor said he had received requests also for lights in alleys at the rear of the Masonic Temple and the American Hotel.

The reports were referred to the service committee.

NATION SUFFERS WITH MERCURY SOARING IN 90S

Temperature yesterday was two degrees higher.

One death was attributed directly to heat prostration. Two brothers, seeking to escape the oppressive heat, drowned while swimming in Brooke Point lake near Cuyahoga Falls.

Clerk Loses Purse

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 4—(UP)—As doors in the county office building were left open to obtain some relief from the heat, a thief walked in and took the purse of a clerk, Miss Elizabeth Massarelli, containing $15.

Showers today are expected to give little relief from the 93-degree temperature registered yesterday.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4—(UP)—More hot, humid weather was in prospect today in the wake of yesterday's high of 94 degrees, which equalled the Summer's record. Eight deaths were attributed to the heat.

DETROIT, Aug. 4—(UP)—Showers were expected today to break a two-day heat wave that sent temperatures soaring to the 100 degree mark in Michigan.

One of the hottest localities in the state was Hell. Authorities at Hell, Mich., traditional hot weather spot, reported a high of 100 degrees.

At Detroit thousands jammed beaches and parks as the temperature rose to 90 degrees. One youth was drowned while swimming in the Detroit river.

Many sweltering apartment dwellers abandoned their beds and slept on the grass in Belle Isle park.

RAILROAD MEN UNABLE TO END WAGE DISPUTE

CHICAGO, Aug. 4—(UP)—Representatives of the nation's railroads and 18 railroad Brotherhoods today abandoned their effort to negotiate a settlement of the carriers' demand for a 15 percent wage reduction.

H. A. Enoch, chairman of the carriers' joint conference committee, said the railroads would ask for federal mediation. George F. Harrison, president of the Railway Labor Executives association and spokesman for the Brotherhoods, said he would call for a vote of the association later today on whether to join the railroads in their requests for mediator.

The carriers and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, which negotiated separately, agreed yesterday to seek a federal mediator's assistance.

Harrison asserted that his organization still was not prepared to accept a wage cut.

FAMED SURGEON, RELATIVE OF CIRCLEVILLE MAN, DIES

He was a first cousin of Dr. C. G. Stewart of Circleville, who is also a native of Newark.

The New York physician was the husband of Olga Petrova, the actress and playwright, who survives. He served his internship at St. Vincent's hospital, Indianapolis.

VOICE ... of the... PEOPLE

To the Editor of

The Circleville Herald

With the August 9th primary drawing near I feel that the voters of Circleville should be given some facts concerning the operation of Berger Hospital so that they will be properly informed before voting on the Bond issue for the maternity addition.

Each year since 1930 when the Hospital was opened the number of patients and days care has increased. This is as it should be for those who need hospitalization and are confined at Berger hospital offer much praise for the treatment and care that they receive at this fine institution.

During the last six months ending June 30th, 218 patients were admitted for 1,777 days care. During this time 37 births were recorded at the hospital.

The addition planned, for which a bond issue of $10,000 is being asked, will be a much needed maternity ward costing approximately $19,000. As it will be built with government assistance the cost to the city will be greatly reduced with a 45 percent Federal grant.

The need of a maternity ward can be understood when we know that almost every year an increase of births in the hospital has been shown. In 1931 there were 43; 1932, 47; 1933, 33; 1934, 51; 1935, 50; 1936, 55; 1937, 78 and the first six months of 1938 there were 37.

A quarterly report of the operation of Berger hospital is made to City Council so that the cost of operation and collections of the hospital can be told to the people of Circleville. This report has always been carried in the columns of your newspaper but I believe that the report of the last six months should be given again for it shows expenses of $9,558.28 and collections amounting to $5,561.83. Accounts receivable during this period were $1605.31, making a total of collections and accounts receivable of $10,167.19. This is the first time in the history of the hospital that it has been self-sustaining.

I hope that the above information will enlighten any voters who have had any doubt as to the need of this maternity addition and that they will vote favorably on Aug. 9.

Sincerely yours,
Karl J. Herrman
Director of Public Safety

SPECIAL JURY'S LEGALITY HIT IN COURT SUIT

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4—(UP)—Legality of the special grand jury which indicted 18 state officials and employees on charges of violating civil service regulations was challenged in Common Pleas court here today.

Counsel for those indicted in connection with alleged campaign "shakedown" contended that the special grand jury which heard evidence acted in a court term other than the one in which it was chosen. The grand jury also investigated Ohio's parole system last winter. Several members of the grand jury were alleged to have seen excessive jury service.

DWYER YOUTH WARNED

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 4—(UP)—Nineteen-year-old Paul (Buddy) Dwyer testified today that Francis M. Carroll visited him at the county jail shortly after the youth was arrested for two murders, for one of which the former deputy sheriff is now on trial, and warned him to "keep my mouth shut."

PEARL WHITE

one night stands as Eve in a "Tom Show"—Uncle Tom's cabin. She played numerous roles on the stage, and then entered the movies in their early days.

It was not long before she was the serial queen. That was before the days of doubles and stand ins. When the heroine of "The Perils of Pauline" dived off a cliff to escape the villain, clung to narrow ledges on tall buildings, narrowly escaping collisions with speeding trains or jumped off cliffs, it was Miss White herself who took the chances.

But her day passed before Hollywood became Hollywood. She not only did not visit Hollywood in her retirement but had no curiosity about it. She had never been there in her life—her movies were made on the East coast.

Miss White visited the United States a year ago after a nine year absence. She soon found that she was well remembered, for though she tried to keep her visit unknown, the word spread that she was in New York and soon her hotel was besieged by movie fans who remembered her as Pauline.

On her retirement Miss White came to France. She had a home in Paris and a villa at Rambouillet. She owned a stable of race horses and devoted much time to sport. Occasionally she appeared in a French stage or movie production.

Miss White was married twice, first to Victor Sutherland, an actor, whom she divorced in 1914, then to Maj. Wallace McCutcheon. She divorced McCutcheon in 1921.

APPEAL FAILS, BLIND GIRL MAY SAIL FOR HOME

LONDON, Aug. 4—(UP)—Miss Hazel Hurst, 25-year-old blind lecturer from the United States, probably will have to return home on the same steamer on which she arrived without having a chance to land, it was indicated today.

Miss Hurst's difficulty is over her "seeing eye" dog. Under English regulations, the dog must be quarantined for six months before being permitted in the country. Miss Hurst, refusing to be parted from her faithful guardian, declined to land without him.

She arrived on Monday aboard the steamer American Merchant with her Alsatian guide, Babe. The two have traveled 80,000 miles together and Miss Hurst says they will never be parted until one or the other dies. Babe leads his mistress and warns her of danger by pressing his paw on her foot.

Miss Hurst, who has been living on the liner since her arrival, sent a personal appeal to President Roosevelt, King George and Herbert Morrison, British minister of agriculture.

It was understood that in accordance with custom, the king was routinely acquainted with the nature of her telegram but that it was referred to the ministry of agriculture and no acknowledgment from the king is likely.

NAZIS CHANGING JEWISH NAMES OF HIGHWAYS

BERLIN, Aug. 4—(UP)—Several Berlin thoroughfares soon will lose years-long identity under a decree issued by the ministry of interior today abolishing Jewish street names.

The avenue named for Heinrich Hertz, discoverer of electric waves, will be renamed Grammestrasse for a little-known Aryan electrician.

Simonstrasse, named for the first president of the German reichstag under Bismarck, will be called Sommerstrasse after a Berlin alderman.

The street named for a non-Aryan architect named Hitzig will become Stuelerstrasse for a Berlin architect.

Wassermannstrasse named for August von Wasserman will be named Correnstrasse for a botanist who made discoveries pertaining to heredity laws.

TRENT YOUTH'S LAWYERS PLEAD FOR HIS LIFE

CINCINNATI, Aug. 4—(UP)—Attorneys for Lindberg Trent, 15, who pleaded guilty to the multi-stage murder of six-year-old Shirley Ann Woodburn, today asked a three-judge court to have mercy on the boy on the grounds that he was without proper environment during his formative years and was the victim of an incurable mental condition.

The prosecution described the boy as a hopeless degenerate, one who enjoyed inflicting pain on other children and animals. A school teacher testified that he once tried to get classmates to eat potassium of cyanide crystals, telling them the crystals were rock candy.

The Woodburn child's body, bearing 6 stab wounds and showing evidence of extreme cruelty before death, was found on a wooded hillside Memorial Day. Trent confessed that he lured her there on the pretext of hunting rabbits, induced her to take off her clothes, and then stabbed her with a penknife when she ran.

After presentation of two state witnesses today, the defense was to call psychiatrists and playmates.

Trent's efforts to give poison crystals to schoolmates earned him the nickname, "Cyanide Kid," another boy testified.

Police said Clark was arrested about 2:30 a. m. on E. Main street. He is alleged to have been driving about 55 miles an hour.

CLAYPOOL WILL SWEEP DISTRICT, OBSERVERS SAY

Every County to be for Incumbent, Endorsed By Leading Solons

Congressman Harold K. Claypool will carry every county in the Eleventh District and be nominated for a second term by a two to one margin. This is the prediction that non-partisan political observers are making in every part of Fairfield, Hocking, Perry, Pickaway, and Ross County.

These observers point out that in the past thirty years no Democratic Congressman from the Eleventh District has failed to secure his party's nomination for a second term. The second term rule is stronger in the eleventh district than perhaps in any other district in Ohio. Old line party leaders believe that Claypool, who has demonstrated that he can win at the general election, should not have had opposition at the primary. For this reason almost every regular Democratic leader in the district is working for Claypool's re-nomination.

Has Beaten Both Opponents

The belief in Claypool's certain victory is further strengthened by the fact that he defeated both of his opponents two years ago, and went on in the general election to a smashing two to one victory in which he carried every county by a wide margin. Since the Congressman has greatly strengthened himself during his first term and is well known in every part of his district he is regarded as unbeatable his second time out. Neither of the Congressman's opponents are known outside their home towns. One of Claypool's opponents is making his third bid for the Democratic nomination and is becoming known as a disgruntled perennial candidate.

Administration Supporting Claypool

Claypool has gone along with President Roosevelt and has been endorsed for re-election by Administration leaders including Speaker Bankhead and Sam Rayburn of the U. S. House of Representatives. Rayburn is Roosevelt's right hand man in the House of Representatives. Some astute observers believe that an underlying bitter opposition to the Roosevelt program may have prompted Claypool's opponents to enter the race. Claypool's opponents have publicly stated that they would oppose parts of the Roosevelt program but have deemed it unwise to come out in the open with full opposition.

W. P. A. DIRECTOR FIRES TWO FOR POLITICAL WORK

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4—(UP)—Two W. P. A. superintendents were dismissed today by J. L. Kelly, central Ohio W. P. A. director, the grounds that they permitted circulation of petitions for political candidates among workers at the state capitol during working hours.

Charles Blotzer and Otto Oberkonz, both of Columbus, were the officials dismissed.

Kelly charged that W.P.A. workers have been used to make flower boxes for platform decorations and to load state trucks with campaign literature favorable to Gov. Martin L. Davey, who is seeking renomination.

The investigation Kelly said, resulted from information from a W.P.A. worker who complied with a request of Federal W.P.A. administrator Harry L. Hopkins that any political activity by W.P.A. officials be reported.

The W.P.A. project in the state capitol is to convert basement rooms into modern offices.

STATE WIDENS BUSINESS ROLE IN PHILIPPINES

Government in Industry
Endorsed Throughout
Archipelago

QUEZON SEES PROFITS

Islands Must Stand Alone
Among World Nations
After 1946

MANILA, Aug. 4.—(UP)—In a determined effort to adjust the nation's economy to alleviate its 80 percent dependence, on duty-free American markets, the Philippine Commonwealth is pioneering in the development of industries that private capital has ignored.

Going a long step farther toward "putting government into business" than any administration in the United States, the Commonwealth government of President Manuel L. Quezon frankly hopes to net fair profits from its ventures.

Government ownership and operation of commercial enterprises is not a new step in the Philippines. Under the American administration which preceded the Commonwealth established in 1935 under the independence act, the government for years owned and operated the leading railroad, bus lines, the Manila hotel, largest in the islands, and the Cebu Portland Cement Co. These projects have netted substantial profits.

Must Create Industries

President Quezon's government, which is scheduled to become completely independent in 1946, faces the task of creating local industries against the day when it must stand alone in the family of nations.

The "government into business" drive is being handled by the National Development Company, an amply financed governmentally owned corporation.

One of the latest projects of the company is the establishment of a cotton textile mill. Spinning, weaving and finishing machinery have been ordered from the United States and the manufacture of textile goods is expected to begin by the close of 1938. At present, the sizeable Philippine market for textiles is supplied by Japan and the United States. Philippine imports of American textiles approximate 8,000,000 square meters monthly.

In the field of mining, the NDC has decided to develop coal and iron deposits with a view ultimately to develop domestic smelting. Several months ago, President Quezon turned down an attractive offer from Japanese interests eager to develop the Commonwealth's iron deposits.

Fish Cannery Next

During the past year, the NDC has received $10,000,000 from the Commonwealth treasury for industrial surveys, establishment of a food cannery, and a can factory. At the present-time, it is acquiring 7,500 acres of fish ponds with a view to establishing a fish company.

In contrast to the protests sometimes voiced in the United States against the Federal government entering the domain of private business, Philippine business men favor the Commonwealth's program. Even pioneer American businessmen in the islands endorse the step as holding large potential benefits for Filipinos.

CLEANUP, NOT HOLDUP, CAUSES FLURRY IN BANK

NORWALK, O. — (UP) — It wasn't a holdup but a cleanup that caused all the excitement at the Citizens' National Bank.

Ray Hutchins, janitor, got the dust-rag caught in the alarm box. The bell, which could not be turned off, rang until the electric current was exhausted.

Ever Wonder Why You're Constipated?

Do you ever have days when you just have to drag yourself along, when you feel tired, sunk—because of that constipation? Then why not find out the real cause of your trouble?

What have you had to eat lately? Just things like meat, bread and potatoes? If that's it, you may not have to look any farther. It's likely your trouble is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and aids elimination.

If "bulk" is what you lack, your ticket is a dish of crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need plus Nature's great intestinal tonic, vitamin B.

Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and join the "regulars!" Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

DOROTHY DUNCAN

Meals For a Day

We know that you don't want to spend any more time than necessary in the kitchen at mealtime in hot weather, so we have planned a day's series of meals which make for easier serving and for less dishwashing, and for which most of the preparation can be done in the cool of the morning.

Midsummer is no time to preach sermons about balanced menus, but one small caution; don't serve a whole meal of cold things—even on a hot day. If, for the main course, you choose a salad or some other chilled food, you really should supplement it with a hot soup and hot beverage.

The rule works the other way round if your main dish happens to be a hot one. In that case, fruit cup, jellied soup, or a tomato juice cocktail, makes a perfect first course, and an iced drink is entirely suitable.

Breakfast
Orange or Grapefruit Baskets Bacon
Coffee Toast
Omelet
4 Tbsp. hot water
1 Tbsp. butter
4 eggs
1/2 tsp. salt
Dash of pepper

Separate eggs, beat whites until stiff. Beat yolks and add salt, pepper and boiling water. Fold the whites into the yolks. Heat an omelet or frying pan, put in the butter, and pour the omelet mixture into it, cook slowly until risen and brown on the sides. Set in a moderate oven until brown and firm. Serve at once.

Luncheon
Chicken Dressing Cabbage Salad
Cinnamon Apples Cookies
Tea or Cocoa

Chicken Dressing
3 slices white bread
3 slices whole wheat bread
1/4 lb. American cheese
1 egg
1/2 C. milk

Slice cheese and place between slices of buttered bread, using one of white bread and one of whole wheat bread. Cut each sandwich in half. Beat egg and add milk. Dip sandwiches in mixture and fry on both sides until golden brown.

Cabbage Salad
Mix 2 C. crisp and dried shredded cabbage and 1 C. diced fresh pineapple and 1/2 C. cooked salad dressing or sour cream dressing; season with salt and pepper to taste.

Dinner
Gingerale Cocktail
Green Salad—French Dressing
Parisian Peaches Coffee

Meat Pasties
1/2 lb. chopped beef
1/2 lb. chopped veal
1/2 C. canned or cooked tomatoes
1/2 tsp. salt
Few grains pepper
1 tsp. sage
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
Rich pastry

Mix beef, veal, tomatoes, salt, pepper, sage, Worcestershire sauce and mustard. Let stand in refrigerator about 1 hour. Roll out pastry very thin on a slightly floured board and cut in 6-inch squares. Form meat mixture into rolls and place a roll in the center of each square. Moisten edges of pastry with cold water, fold over to enclose the meat, envelope fashion. Press edges together with the finger tips. Prick tops with times of fork to let steam escape. Bake on baking sheet in a moderate oven (375 degrees) 30 to 35 minutes. Serve at once.

BABYLONIAN KING NAMED AS FIRST ARCHEOLOGIST

CHICAGO — (UP) — Modern archeologists can trace their profession to an ancient Babylonian king, according to Dr. Waldo H. Dubberstein, of the University of Chicago.

Nabunaid, the last king of an independent Babylonian empire about 2,500 years ago became interested in archeology after he had inaugurated an extensive building program throughout his kingdom. Records uncovered by modern scholars contain references to inscriptions of kings who preceded him in Babylonia for 2,000 years.

He identified buildings of the Assyrian, the Cassite, the old Babylonian (the great Hammurabi) and the first Semitic empire under Saragon, though his findings have been occasionally corrected by modern research workers.

By VICTOR H. RIES, O. S. U. floriculturist

QUESTION: There are a number of big black ants in the trunk of my catalpa tree. Can you tell me what I can do about them? Will they kill the tree?

ANSWER: You will find usually that the black ants are found only in the dead and rotten wood in the trunks of trees. To control them the decayed wood should, if possible, be carefully and completely removed and the wound of the cavity painted with gas tar. If this does not stop their work some old rags or other absorbent material can be put in the trunk and saturated with one-half pint of carbon bi-sulphide with all openings in the trunk immediately covered with wet newspapers and canvas, tied.

QUESTION: The branches of my umbrella catalpa seem to be dying. The leaves wilt, then the entire branch dies. Is this going to kill the tree?

ANSWER: The wilt which commonly attacks the umbrella catalpa, usually in mid-summer, seldom kills the entire tree. It may kill a few branches or one-fourth or one-third of the tree. There is nothing you can do to prevent its spread other than to cut out and burn the dead branches. If you cut the branches back to stubs, next year I believe you will find the tree will come out as well as ever.

QUESTION: There are a number of low branches on my maple tree in front of my home which interfere with trucks going by. When can I remove these?

ANSWER: These branches may be removed at any time. Now, while the leaves are on, is as good a time as any. If you remove them yourself, I would suggest that you saw an inch or so into the branch on the under side, a few inches out from the trunk before sawing off the branch. This will prevent the branch, as it splits off, from ripping the bark of the trunk itself. In cutting off any branch, it is very essential to cut flush with the next bigger branch or the trunk, leaving absolutely no stub. A projection of even one-eighth inch may be sufficient to prevent satisfactory healing of the wound. If the wound is over an inch in diameter, it should be painted with good tree paint to prevent cracking and the entrance of decay. If this special paint is not available, you can use ordinary house paint. Do not paint any closer than one-fourth inch from the edge of the bark since it may kill the layer of growing tissue just beneath the bark.

QUESTION: Sometime when you are in this section of the state I would appreciate it if you would stop by and tell me how to landscape the yard of the farm I have just purchased.

ANSWER: I wish I might be able to help you with your farm landscape problem but my entire time is taken up with meetings and lecture work for the general public, so it is impossible for me to do any individual landscape work. May I suggest that you ask your local county agricultural agent to give you a list of the farm home landscape demonstrations that I established in your county some years ago. After studying these, and reading the extension bulletin, Beautifying the Home Grounds, I am sure you will be able to work out a satisfactory plan yourself.

QUESTION: Our lawn is dying out in large spots. The grass is real loose. I dug up some by the roots and it seems to be dead. I also found some grub worms in the spots where the grass was loose. Can you tell me what to do to save our lawn?

ANSWER: You no doubt have an infestation of sod web worms which will cut off all the grass roots near the surface of the ground. They probably are best controlled by an immediate application of arsenate of lead, mixing two or three pounds of it with 20 gallons of water. Apply this amount with a watering can to 1000 square feet of lawn area. It is well to wash this off the grass with clean water before it dries. If you wish to apply the arsenate of lead dry as a dust, it will take about seven pounds per 1000 square feet of lawn. The poison should not be mixed with sand or soil when used for the control

NORMAL BUSINESS RISE

LABOR, business and government seem to be agreed about one thing, which is good news in itself. The subject of their agreement is likewise good news. Spokesmen for these groups are the American Federation of Labor, the National City Bank of New York and the federal Department of Commerce. All three say in recent statements that industrial trends are upward.

Employment is improving. Markets are active. Consumer lines continue sustained activity. Steel orders grow slowly.

The needs of the country, says the National City Bank, are asserting themselves again. It is not necessarily a boom, but the slowing down process had gone farther than warranted and the reaction is normal and justifies optimism.

ANTARCTIC EXPLORERS

RIVALRY between polar explorers seems to be a thing of the past, perhaps because both poles have been pretty well discovered by now and the "first" honors distributed. Much exploring and scientific study remain to be done, and combining resources and ideas seems to be the accepted way to go about it.

The Lincoln Ellsworth Expedition is the next one planned. Ellsworth concentrates on making flights over the South Polar region. He does not dig in and set up an elaborate camp for ground exploring, as the two Byrd expeditions have done. Sir Hubert Wilkins, who has also done much polar flying, is joining forces with him. "The Ellsworth expedition," says Wilkins, "will be about the last of the general reconnaissance trips. Future expeditions will be more detailed. The place where we are going is a huge triangle about 2,000 miles in circumference and 1,200 miles long. Nothing except a general outline of the coast is known. It is the eastern half of the Antarctic. The western half has been explored many times."

The expedition will sail in the Wyatt Earp from Cape Town on October 1. There are times in our own winters when we think people who insist on going to the South Pole are crazy. In August they seem wise. In any season, their work is more interesting, more romantic, more humane and useful than that of the war-makers.

Yes, they had quaint social standards thirty years ago. A police judge in Cleveland ruled that "kissing on a moonlit porch constitutes disorderly conduct."

What the Old World needs is more conventions and parades of Odd Fellows, Elks and Grottos.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

This years congressional fight is not between Democrats and Republicans. It is not even between liberals and conservatives. It is between New Dealers and Old Dealers.

There are, as we know, Old Deal Democrats as well as Republicans. There also are some quite New Dealerish Republicans. I do not think of any New Dealers who can be classified as conservatives, but I can think of plenty of so-called Old Dealers who always were considered liberals until rather recently.

Besides, what about La Follette Progressives and the Farmer-Laborites? They surely are liberal, but they remain independent of New Dealerish Democracy—and of any kind of Republicanism also. And as to individuals? Republican Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan favors the nomination of what he deems the right sort of Democrats as Republicans. Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York, who used to be a Republican (except occasionally, when he was a Socialist, or a Fusionist, or when he had American Labor party affiliations), is suggested as a possible New Deal Democratic nominee, for one office or another.

To say that this is confusing is to put it mildly.

CHANGING TIMES

Democratic Senator William H. King of Utah has been one of the most consistent of the New Deal's opponents. He is not up for reelection this year, but the New Dealers speak of him as a vehement reactionary. Yet I can remember when, wanting an interview with a generally recognized liberal, Senator King was one of the first statesmen I headed for.

I always greatly liked Senator M. M. Logan of Kentucky. But whenever I got an interview from him, all my liberal friends bawled me out for consulting a son of a Bourbon Democrat. Now he is a sound New Dealer.

If Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska (an Independent at present but previously, for many years, a Republican) were to ask for a Democratic nomination, for anything, unquestionably the New Deal Democrats would grant it to him joyfully.

Senator Gerald P. Nye has Republican (his own party's) independent opposition in his home state of North Dakota because he has been, maybe, a bit too Democratically New Dealerish.

LIBERALS SPLIT

Wouldn't one surmise that the Farmer-Laborites and the La Follette Progressives, politically and economically as both of those two groups are, would cast in lots with the Democratic New Dealers? But, no! Each has its own row to hoe. They do not even join forces between each other.

CONSERVATIVES SOLID

Roughly speaking, this next election will hinge upon liberalism versus conservatism—though conservatism will be much more liberal than it used to be.

If business conditions improve, as they have been doing lately, New Deal liberalism will win by a comfortable margin. It may lose a few congressional seats but not enough to signify—unless it suffers a much worse set-back than anything today hints at.

On the opposite hand, there is this to reckon with: Conservatism has solidarity. Conservatives may differ a little but they can get together, and compromise.

Radical groups are irreconcilable.

Old Guard Republicans and Bourbon Democrats conceivably can merge.

Not New Deal Democrats, Farmer-Laborites, La Follette Progressives, and other miscellaneous liberals—up to the radical stage. The split has got to be two ways in this country. It is traditional.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.

WAR LOOMS BEFORE AUG. 14

WASHINGTON—Sometimes it is quietest just before the storm, and this may be the situation in Europe today.

Diplomats always have figured that if they could get by the first two weeks in August they would be fairly safe as far as war is concerned for another year.

But now it begins to look as if the Nazis might not let the August deadline pass. All the confidential reports received here indicate that they are preparing for a real showdown.

Here are some of the secret developments:

Austrian and German businessmen have been unable to get freight cars in the area around the Czech border. All cars have been taken over by the military because of the heavy shipment of supplies.

Underground airdromes are being built at terrific speed along the Czech border, especially on the Austrian side closest to Prague.

German motorized transport, including heavy artillery, tanks, and anti-aircraft batteries, has been concentrated in Austria near the Czech border.

The Nazi Secret Council is reported to have picked the date of August 13 for the putsch into Czechoslovakia.

Whether or not this latter report is accurate, obviously cannot be confirmed. But this much is definite. News of the date is believed by the British Foreign Office, and is one reason for Lord Runciman's visit to Prague and the sudden British desire to put the quietus on Czechoslovakia.

British diplomacy today, works on the theory of surrender any thing that belongs to somebody else—but don't risk a fight.

NAZI SHOWDOWN

All this Nazi activity may not mean war. But it does mean that Hitler is determined to get what he wants in Czechoslovakia. He would much rather get it without war, in fact he might run in the other direction if he knew in advance that war was certain.

But he has seen the British yield so many times, that he is gambling on their yielding again. Probably that is one reason why he has let the British know about his troops along the Czech border.

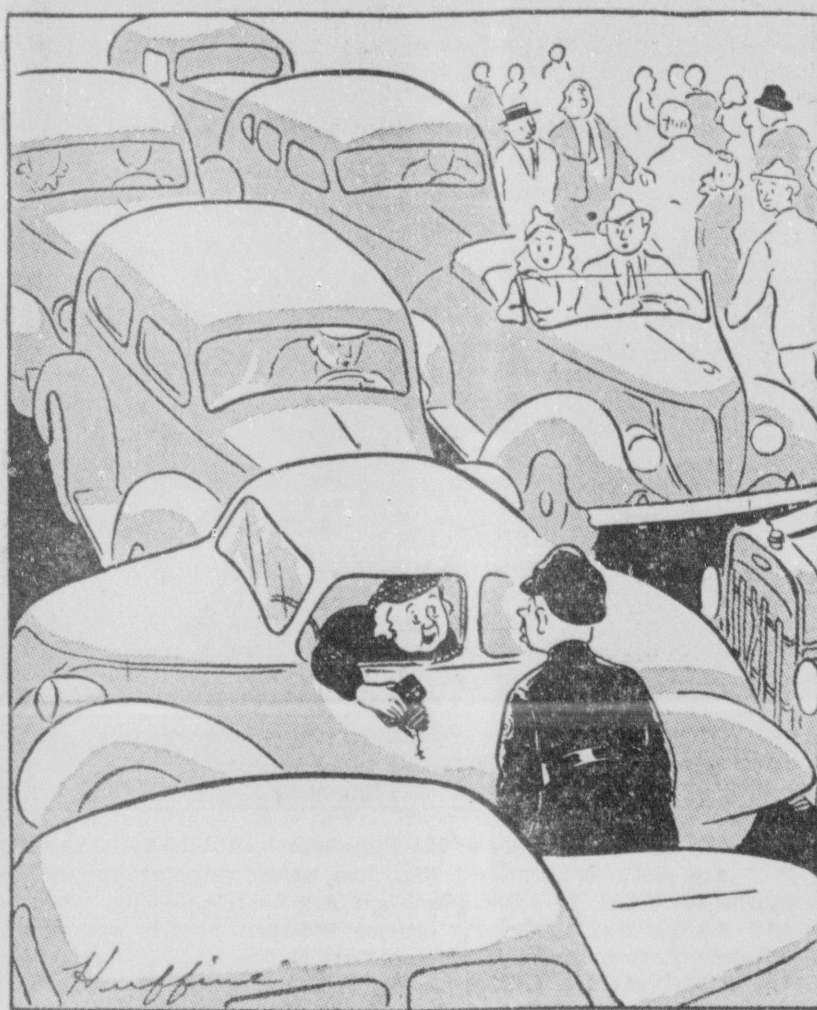

Another important factor which disturbs the British is the real topic of conversation between Lord Halifax and Captain Weidemann, Hitler's aide, just before King George and Queen Elizabeth went to Paris.

News reports didn't get it at the time, but what Weidemann proposed was that Germany give up completely her idea of colonies, and receive in turn a free hand to "colonize" Central Europe—Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Hungary and the Ukraine. Hitler didn't propose to conquer these countries, Weidemann said, merely bring them under the Nazi sphere of influence.

Lord Halifax made no commitments. But the Weidemann message was discussed very seriously in Paris.

All of these developments mean that you want to hold your hat before the next two weeks have passed in Europe.

Do Polishes Harm Nails?

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

BOTH IN scientific medical circles and in lay groups, domestic and social, there has been a great deal of recent interest in the question of whether nail polishes and lacquers cause any irritation of the surrounding skin or any harm to the nails.

The basis for nail lacquers usually is ethyl acetate or butyl acetate. This is the solvent, in which nitrocellulose is dissolved. Talc and pigments are added to the consistency and color required.

But this does not exhaust the possibilities of the ingredients used in various preparations. Other solvents such as acetone, cellosolve and cellosolve acetate; aids to solvents such as toluene, xylene, benzene, naphtha; nitrocellulose of various viscosities, drying in from ten to forty seconds; pyroxilin; and plasticizers such as castor oil, tricresyl phosphate, butyl stearate, camphor or resin.

Many of these have possible irritating effects on the skin or drying and crumbling effects on the nail. From the acetates mentioned, acetic acid may be formed and to this has been ascribed the nail injury, consisting of brittleness and cracking.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

CHAPTER 29

NOEL STARED at Nick, the color rushing to her face, when he announced he was going to marry her. Nick poured himself a glass of champagne and sat looking at her through the bowl of his glass.

Finally Noel said, "That's absurd, Nick. I do not love you. I am not interested in marriage."

Nick sat twirling his glass now. "I'm not a bad fellow, really," he began in his tight voice. "You'd have found that out if you'd made any effort."

"But I'm not interested," Noel repeated.

"Wait a minute," Nick moved over to a wall safe, twirled the dial until it opened and came back with several velvet jewel boxes.

"Look, these are for you! You've probably never realized that Nick Luigi's a rich man." He opened two boxes, displaying a diamond and emerald bracelet and a string of perfectly matched pearls that would have made a duchess envious. Then he opened a third box containing a large, very handsome diamond ring. "A Marquis," he said proudly. "Fifty thousand dollars—not a cent less."

Noel looked coldly at the jewels. They were magnificent, of course. But she was feeling like the heroine of some of the old-time melodramas in the nineties. One of those funny old songs was running idly through her head:

"Take back your gold For gold can never buy—me—"

The situation seemed both absurd and laughable. But Nick was in deadly earnest. "Look at this apartment," he said. "It's all yours."

The big room was lovely, Noel had to admit. It had a cool cathedral air, with its high vaulted ceiling, and its oval stained-glass windows. Even the luxurious furnishings did not take away this effect. But to find Nick Luigi in such an apartment was the last thing in the world she would have expected.

"Your apartment is lovely, Nick," she said evenly. "And now I must go." She rose.

But Nick ignored that too. "Everything I have is always of the best," he said. "That's why I want you."

"Good night, Nick," Noel moved to the door.

"You're not going?" Nick exclaimed in a voice of surprise, as if he could not possibly believe his guest would want to leave so early.

"I certainly am going," Noel retorted. "And listen, Nick, if you have any idea that you can keep me here, you'd just better get it out of your mind at once."

"You do slap very hard—I seem to remember," Nick came back with an unusual attempt at humor. Then he added, "The door is open. Nobody is keeping you."

Noel found that was true. She opened the door, started out.

Then Nick said, "So you're not interested in what I have to say about the young doctor?"

Noel hesitated. Then she turned and faced him. "If you have anything to tell me about him, which I don't believe, you'd better go on and say it."

She didn't look closely at Nick. So she did not see the dark scowl that came to his face. But she could judge something about his mood from the grim, suddenly furious tone of his voice. "Just this: You're never going to marry him. Never—if I have to—"

But he did not finish. Noel stood there, a sudden weakness rushing over her. Nick's words had a familiar sound. This was the second time someone had told her that she would never marry Julian Paige.

Then Noel straightened and looked at Nick levelly. "Listen to this, Doctor Paige isn't any more interested in me than I—I am in you. And that is just exactly—NOT AT ALL." She stopped, drew a long breath, went on. "He has never asked me to marry him. And he hasn't the slightest intention of doing it."

"You lie almost as beautifully as you dance," Nick said grimly.

"It's the truth!" With that Noel opened the door and walked to the elevator. She wasn't sure she knew how to operate it. Probably she'd better walk down.

But Nick was standing beside her. "I'll take you down."

Neither of them said a word as the elevator whirled downward. Then Noel heard it give a little whine as Nick once again started it upward after letting her out with a brief "good night."

It was dark and rather eerie down in the long dance hall. There was only one dim light burning at the entrance to guide her to the door—a long way from where she stood. Noel was feeling shaken. Nick's threat had frightened her, and the shadows in the long room seemed to rise up and reach out long talon fingers to grab at her.

When she at last reached the door, a figure rose up in the semidarkness. Noel almost screamed because her nerves were so on edge.

But it was Maida. "I didn't mean to scare you, honey," she apologized timidly. "I just knew you'd gone up with Nick, and I—I just thought you might like for me to wait."

Noel gripped her arm in relief. "Maida, it was one of the sweetest things anybody ever did for me. I needed somebody—rather terribly."

"That's what I thought," Maida put her arm around her, and they walked on together. "You had a bad time up there with Nick, I guess. He's a beast. But you can handle him, honey, so don't be afraid."

It had been a sort of nightmare in Nick's cathedral-like apartment. But it was over now. It was all over now. She was free of Nick—facing a new life in which he could never enter.

It was easy to regain her feeling of confidence once out in the fresh air with the coolness on her flushed face and the friendly clasp of Maida's thin little arm.

"This is my last night at Luigi's," she told her. "Thank heaven, I'll never have to go back." "I'm glad too, honey," Maida said, "although I'll sure miss you. I've always been afraid Nick might cause you some trouble. You see, you're the kind of girl that men fall for, and fall for hard."

Noel almost could have laughed at that. There was one man, she could have told Maida, who didn't fall for her, who had said that he never intended to. And he happened to be the only one who counted.

She wondered, a sick pain coming up to her throat, what Julian was doing now, and where he was—and most of all, who was with him.

The light was on in the dingy room when Noel reached home, and Laurie was sitting up. He faced rather anxiously. "You were so late," she began, "I was beginning to be uneasy. Did Luigi make any trouble?"

"A little," Noel said, trying hard to make her voice sound unconcerned. She didn't want Laurie to worry, so she didn't tell her the threat that had been in Nick Luigi's voice when he had spoken of Julian. But Noel thought Julian should know. He ought to be put on his guard.

The worried expression still lingered on Laurie's face, so Noel said reassuringly, "Listen, darling, I can always take care of myself."

Laurie didn't say anything. Laurie asked a little fearfully.

"You bet," Noel gave her a little pat on her hand.

When they were in bed, after Noel had given her hair a hundred strokes, she asked Laurie the question she wished she could keep from asking, but could not. "Did you see Julian today?"

Laurie didn't answer. She was either reluctant to answer, or else she hadn't heard.

Noel raised up on one elbow. "Tell me, don't be afraid. I'm not going to jump into the river or anything like that. Did you see him and was he with Ruth Chester?"

"They lunched together and afterwards walked down the street," Laurie said hesitantly.

"I hate her," Noel cried suddenly. "I didn't know there'd ever be anybody in the world I'd hate as much as I do her."

Jean Torrence Marries John F. Bales in Xenia

Couple Leaves for Honeymoon
In Europe

Impressive in its simplicity was the wedding of Miss Jean Patricia Torrence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Findley M. Torrence of Xenia, and Mr. John Foster Bales of Northampton, Mass., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rea Bales, E. Main street.

The ceremony was performed before the fireplace in the living room of the Torrence home, Wednesday evening, in the presence of the immediate families of the bride and bridegroom. The improvised altar was banked with potted ferns with tall baskets of calla lilies and cathedral candles in seven-branched candelabra on either side.

Preceding the ceremony, Mr. Edmund Munger played a program of nuptial music modulating to the Lohengrin Wedding March as the hands of the clock moved upward after 8:30. Mr. Bales, attended by his father as best man, together with the Rev. C. O. Nybladh advanced to the altar. Next came the bride's youthful sister, Catherine, and her playmate, Betty Ann Trugh, dressed quaintly in floor length taffeta dresses of pink and green and carrying old-fashioned nosegays of pom-pom asters and pink roses.

The bride came to the altar on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, wearing the traditional gown of gleaming white satin. It was fashioned on princess lines with long full train. The long sleeves ended in points at the hands and the trimming was of exquisite rose point lace, which had been used on the wedding dress of her grandmother Torrence. The full tulle veil which fell from a coronet of rose point lace worn far back on her head, extended the full length of her train. She carried a colonial bouquet of white bride's roses and lilies of the valley, centered with an orchid.

The single ring service of Christ Episcopal church was used. An informal reception was held after the service. The bride's table was attractively arranged in a setting of white. A three-tiered wedding cake, elaborately decorated, centered the table, while white pottery holders with low arrangements of lilies of the valley were at the four corners.

During the evening, Mr. Bales and his bride left by motor for New York City and will sail Friday night on the Holland American S. S. Statendam for a honeymoon abroad. They will visit England, France, Italy, Switzerland and Germany, returning to this country the latter part of September. They will be at home at 55 West street, Northampton, Mass., after October 15.

The former Miss Torrence was graduated in June from Smith College at Northampton. She prepared for college at Xenia Central high school and La Marjolaine, Geneva, Switzerland. She attended Ohio State university for two years where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority and Chi Delta Phi, honorary literary society. She was elected to Alpha Phi Kappa Psi, honorary arts club, at Smith.

Mr. Bales, who was graduated from Circleville high school in the class of 1928, was graduated magna cum laude from Princeton university in the class of 1934. He had his preparatory work at Lake Forest Academy, Lake Forest, Ill. At Princeton, Mr. Bales was a member of Tiger Inn and of the varsity football teams of 1931, 1932, and 1933. He is now an executive of the Prophylactic Brush Co. at Northampton.

Mr. and Mrs. Bales of E. Main street and their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt Moore, were guests at the wedding.

Pinch Batters, Relief Hurler Aid Cincinnati

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 4—(UP)—Two obscure members of the Cincinnati Reds cast who had been stamped as "duds" and left to languish in the dugout emerged today as the heroes in a triumph which boosted the proteges of Manager Bill McKechnie into a tie for third place with the highly regarded Chicago Cubs.

The "forgotten men" who sparked the Reds to their 6 to 3 triumph over the Phillies in 10 innings here yesterday were Lee Gumbel and "Dusty" Cooke.

Gamble and Cooke have seen service during the past month only as pinch hitters and neither were proving of much value in those roles. Nine times during that stretch Gamble and Cooke each had paraded to the plate with runners in scoring positions and neither had been able to secure a hit.

Despite their past failures McKechnie called on them in the eighth inning here yesterday. For seven rounds big Claude Passeau had blanked the Reds and permitted only one runner to reach second base. To start the eighth Gamble batted for Don Lang and singled to center. When Hershel Martin allowed the ball to go through him, Gable sprinted to third. Then Cooke batted for Myers and singled to plate the first Cincinnati run. A single by Linus Frickey sent Cooke to third and he scored the second and tying counter as Wally Berger grounded out. Philadelphia had picked up two runs in the third on three doubles.

Whitey Moore Wins
Cincinnati scored again in the top half of the ninth, but Lloyd (Whitey) Moore, the third Redleg hurler to see service, was nicked for the tying run in the home half.

Moore's single, a sacrifice, Berger's one base hit and Ival Goodman's 27th circuit drive of the season gave the Reds three runs and clinched the decision in the 10th.

Lee Grissom, the big southpaw who had not started a game since April 29, was the Reds first hurler yesterday. He worked six innings in impressive style and indicated he was ready to help the club in its drive down the stretch.

Joe Cascarella pitched one round and then Moore came in to pitch the final three innings and gain credit for the triumph. The victory was his third of the season. He has not lost a decision.

The Reds garnered 10 hits with Frey and Berger setting the pace with two safeties each.

In the final game of the series today Paul Derringer and Hugh Mulcahy were to be the opposing pitchers.

DEADLINE NEAR FOR ENTRIES IN AMATEUR MEET

NEW YORK, Aug. 4—(UP)—Only 161 entries have been received for the 1938 National Amateur golf championship and the deadline is just eight days away, the U. S. Golf Association announced today.

The association expected a large entry because the scene of the championship, Oakmont, Pa., is centrally located. However, there appeared little chance that the 1936 entry record of 1118 would be approached. The association will accept entries up until 5 p. m. Friday, Aug. 12.

Among those entered are defending Champion Johnny Goodman of Omaha, and Charley Yates, Atlantan who won the British Amateur title this year. The foreign entry includes T. A. Torrance and Brig. Gen. A. C. Critchley of England, and Harry Hattersley of Australia. All of these are exceptional from qualifying in the sectional rounds to be played in 32 districts Aug. 30.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

WIRING UP berry bushes in the home garden makes their care and cultivation much simpler. When wired in an upright position it is easier to keep the rank growth pruned out, thus keeping the berry patch from becoming so overgrown and tangled as to make it almost impossible to penetrate it to pick the berries. The sun also has a better opportunity to reach the berries on bushes which are wired up.

The Garden-Graph shows a simple method of anchoring berry bushes. Stretch a single wire along the row of berry bushes. Then cut as many 16-inch lengths of wire as there are bushes. Make an eyelet to loop one end of the short wire over the line for the row. Bend this wire slightly and offset the free end. When it is time to tie up the bushes to keep them erect and protect them from wind lashing, simply slide one of the short hanging wires up to each plant, and loop the offset end over the line wire.

The scheme is simple, and once the short wires are attached to the line wire, they are ready for use year after year.

FELLER, IN NEW ROLE, DOES BIG JOB FOR INDIANS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4—(UP)—Bob Feller, the Iowa schoolboy who has experienced considerable trouble in finishing his own ball games, today had stepped into the rare role of a relief pitcher and proved a success.

With the great Johnny Allen out of action because of a sore arm and Johnny Humphries, the rookie who was counted on to be the Cleveland Indians chief "fireman", unable to get anyone out, Feller went to the box in the seventh inning of the second game of yesterday's double-header here and silenced the big bats of the Boston Red Sox. His great work enabled the Tribe to take the night-cap 8 to 6 after losing the opener 4 to 3.

Earl Whitehill, veteran southpaw, started the second game and went along in great style for six innings and then collapsed. Four singles and a walk sent him to the showers. Then Humphries came on and gave up two more hits and another walk. When his first pitch to the next batter was a ball, Feller came in.

The Iowa youngster sent the next two men down in order and in the last two rounds gave up only one hit and walked one man.

It was only the second time this season Feller has been called upon to perform relief work. The other occasion was on the Tribe's second invasion of the east when he took a turn against the New York Yankees.

Cleveland hopped into the early lead in the second contest when it scored three times in the second inning, once in the third, twice in the fourth and added single markers in the fifth and sixth. After that the Tribe had to fight bitterly to stave off the Red Sox rally.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS
When ironing frocks with puff sleeves, simplify the task by using an earthenware jam jar padded with cotton material to slip inside them. There will be no ugly creases when the ironing is finished.

Put all used crockery or cutlery into a bowl of water so that no food dries on and they may be washed in half the time. It pays in hot weather to do this all through the day and have a good washing up in the cool of the evening.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

TWO TELLING REASONS
MOST FAIR players know one reason why they should generally lead an honor against a no trump contract including a couple of "touchers" such as a king and a queen. They realize that it helps set up the lower honors as trick takers. Many do not comprehend the other important consideration—unblocking for your partner in case he happens to have a longer string in the suit than you have yourself.

West led the spade 6 to the A. When South next lost a trick to the club A and East returned a spade, West blocked the suit and the contract was made.

Consider how different if West had led the spade K. This would have set the contract, as the 6 would have been retained by West as an exit card to put his partner into the lead with the 10.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)
Snappy bidding of 1-No Trump, 2-No Trump, 3-No Trump, set the stage here for West to get an object lesson which has cured him for all time of a pet aversion he possessed. He was one of those fellows who insisted always on making a "number-showing"

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)
How should South play to make his contract of 3-No Trump after the lead of the spade 6?

APOSTLES CLIMB AHEAD OF LOOP SEVEN CONTESTS

COLUMBUS, Aug. 4.—(UP)—If St. Paul is to be kept from winning its first American Association pennant since 1931 seven rival clubs will have to devise quickly a method of stopping the rampaging proteges of "Babe" Ganzel.

Three weeks ago five clubs were bunched closely in the race and it appeared the long-awaited crack-up of the Saints was due. Instead of folding however, St. Paul put on a brilliant dash that today had carried it to a point seven full games in front of the second place Indianapolis club.

The Saints gained important ground yesterday when they turned back Kansas City in both ends of a double-header, 5 to 4 and 3 to 2. The double loss dropped the Blues into third place.

"Boots" Poffenberger, the colorful rookie the Detroit Tigers had to ship back to the minors as a disciplinary move, made his debut with the Toledo Mudhens by hurling them to a 12 to 2 victory over Indianapolis in the second game of a twin bill. Poffenberger permitted seven scattered hits. The Indians won the first game 6 to 2.

Bill Zuber, the speed ball star who was sent back to Milwaukee by the Cleveland Indians for additional seasoning, was impressive in his initial start for the Brewers as he won a 7 to 6 struggle in 10 innings over Minneapolis.

Columbus ran its winning streak to nine straight when it downed the pitifully weak Louisville Colonels 7 to 6 in 10 innings and 4 to 3.

POND IN LEAD; WHITE TO PLAY WITH ALL-STAR

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Raymond Pond, Yale, held first place today in the nation-wide poll to select a staff of coaches for the college All-American team which will meet the Washington Redskins, champions of the National Football league, at Soldiers field Aug. 31. He had 2,808,649 points. Elmer Layden, Notre Dame, was second with 2,747,694, and Harry Kipke, unattached, third, with 2,724,659. Bo McMillin, Indiana, who led the poll yesterday, dropped to fourth place with 2,682,801.

Officials of the all-star squad announced yesterday that Byron (Whizzer) White, Colorado's All-American halfback, has accepted an invitation to play on the team. He will join the Pittsburgh Pirates Aug. 10 at a salary of $15,000 but will return to Chicago in time to work out with the all-stars.

YANKS, PIRATES SHOW STRENGTH IN ROAD TRIPS

Leaders Gain by Annexing Wednesday Contests; Redlegs on Top

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—(UP)—Pacemakers who can win on the road usually blossom into pennant winners in October. That's why the major league situation today pointed to the New York Yankees and Pittsburgh Pirates as likely world series rivals two months hence.

The Yanks continued their highly successful Western junket yesterday while the Pirates stepped up their Eastern pace even faster by sweeping a double header from the Boston Bees. Whereas the Yanks and Pirates have proved their ability to win on the road, their two nearest rivals, the Indians and Giants, slumped in their last inter-sectional road excursions and failed to live up to their form at home.

Pittsburgh, showing no signs of cracking under the pressure of leading the National league parade, blasted the Bees, 9-4 and 4-3, to increase its lead to 5 1-2 games over the Giants. Al Todd, with four hits, led an 18-hit attack on Turner and Hutchinson to win the opener. Arky Vaughan and Paul Waner, with a pair of hits each, paced the Pirates' 10-hit attack on the nightcap. Cy Blanton and Joe Bowman were the winning pitchers.

Giants Club Ball

The New York Giants turned loose a home run barrage on the Chicago Cubs to win, 8-3. Mel Ott hit No. 24 and Mancuso, Bartell and Seeds also hit round trippers. Harry Gumbert, with relief from climaxed a 3-run rally in the Cincinnati moved into a third place tie with the Cubs by trimming the Phillies, 6-3, in 10 innings. Ival Gooden's 27th homer with a mate on base featured the Reds' three run rally in the tenth.

The St. Louis Cardinals nosed out Brooklyn, 3-2, in a ten inning night game. Pitcher Bill McGehee's double, a wild throw by Bill Posedel and Terry Moore's single accounted for the winning tally.

Rookie Joe Gordon's 14th homer climaxed a 3-run rally in the eleventh, giving the Yanks a 10-7 victory over Detroit and increasing New York's American league lead to two games.

The Boston Red Sox divided a pair with Cleveland, winning the opener, 4-3, and then dropping the nightcap to the Indians, 8-6. Cleveland fans gave Earl Averill, American league's leading batsman, a car and he hit a tripple in the opener and a single in the second game. With a 8-0 lead in the nightcap the Indians almost tossed the game away before Bob Feller squelched a rally after six runs had scored.

Athletics Ahead

The Philadelphia Athletics walloped the Chicago White Sox twice, 14-2 and 13-5. Bob Johnson hit homers No. 19 and 20 in the first game. Wally Moses had a perfect day, "4 for 4" in the opener and Earl Brucker did the same thing in the afterpiece, one of his four hits being a homer. The A's made 18 hits in the first game and 16 in the second.

Harland Clift's homer put the clincher on the St. Louis Browns' 5-3 victory over Washington. Buck Newsom let his ex-teammates down with six hits.

SIX BOND ISSUES GO BEFORE VOTERS IN NEXT TUESDAY'S ELECTION

CITY TO BALLOT ON ADDITIONS TO TWO BUILDINGS

Boulevard Lighting System To be Determined at Polls

$31,000 SOUGHT LOCALLY

Monroe, Perry and Madison Townships to Decide Questions

Circleville and Pickaway county voters will ballot on six bond issues at the primary next Tuesday. Three will be submitted to Circleville voters and the others to residents of rural school districts. All issues are for the sponsors' share of P.W.A. projects. Sixty-five percent of the vote is needed for approval.

The three Circleville issues amount to $31,000. They include $10,000 for an addition to Berger hospital, $9,000 for a boulevard lighting system on Court and Main streets, and $12,000 for an addition to the city building.

Estimated cost on the hospital addition is $18,000 with the city's share placed at $9,900 and the government's $8,100. The proposed addition would be 55 by 32 feet and would be constructed on the rear of the institution. It would be of the same fireproof construction as the present building. No excavation would be necessary and the present heating system would be enlarged to take care of the additional space. It would provide more space for maternity cases. The levy for the issue will average .15 of a mill for a maximum of 22 years.

Cost of a boulevard lighting system for Main and Court streets is estimated at $15,000. It is believed about 70 poles would be needed. Councilmen favor steel or wood poles. The levy would average .15 of a mill for a maximum period of 10 years.

The architect's estimated cost on the proposed one-story addition to the city building is $21,510. It would be constructed on the rear of the city building and would provide a new jail, health department headquarters and a city garage. The average levy would be .20 of a mill for a maximum period of 24 years.

$30,000 issue for a new school addition. The Public Works Administration has given the project its approval for a federal grant of $30,272.

The addition is to include a gymnasium-auditorium, home economics department, science room and laboratory, three additional classrooms and remodeling of the old building. The library is to be enlarged and a new heating system installed. The levy for the township's share averages 1.30 mills for a maximum of 20 years.

Perry township residents will vote on a bond issue for $35,750 for an auditorium-gymnasium addition. Estimated cost on the addition is $65,000. The present auditorium is now used as a gymnasium. The ceiling is too low for satisfactory playing. The resettlement project in the Atlanta community will add about 60 pupils to the school next year. The estimated levy is 1.80 mills for a maximum of 24 years.

Madison school district voters will ballot on a $5,000 issue that would require a one mill levy for five years to pay the principal and interest. The addition will house a classroom for the first and second grades and toilet rooms. The present frame building used for the two grades would be sold.

Glass Cargo Survives Crash
CONNEAUT, O. —(UP)—Not one glass container was cracked or broken when a tractor-trailer outfit, enroute from Olean, N. Y., to Cleveland, and carrying 12,980 glass fruit jars, failed to make a turn, rammed a tree and overturned.

Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA

"Hell Divers," mighty romance of aviation in the navy, with Wallace Beery and Clark Gable costarred and a supporting cast which includes such prominent players as Conrad Nagel, Dorothy Jordan, Marjorie Rambeau and Marie Prevost, is providing thrills at the Cliftona Theatre.

The Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer drama, filmed with the cooperation of the navy at the Panama maneuvers, aboard the airplane carrier Saratoga, and at North Island, has in it practically every air thrill the service achieves in its annual training.

One sees planes hurl themselves downward, two miles in less than half a minute. One sees hundreds of planes in the air, diving through clouds in formation.

AT THE GRAND

"Midnight Intruder," a Universal

thriller with a mystery-laden plot is at the Grand Theatre today. This picture, which was filmed from an original story by the famous author Channing Pollock and adapted for the screen by Lester Cole, is cheerfully calculated to keep the audience in rapt suspense one minute, and make them rock with laughter the next. It is all about the adventures en-

Home Economics Groups Assist in Junior Fair

The home economics departments of the high schools in Pickaway county cooperate each year in presenting a successful junior fair which is held in connection with the Pickaway County Pumpkin Show. The plans are now being completed for this year's Pumpkin Show which is to be held Oct. 19, 20, 21 and 22. There are two groups of exhibits in the home economics section.

One group is for school department entries in which any high school home economics department may make an educational exhibit in one of several phases. The classes selected are (1) child care (2) clothing (3) nutrition (4) consumer education and (5) art in everyday life. Each home economics department entering will receive $5. to help finance the exhibit. Every member in the class should cooperate to make the exhibit a success.

The second group is one of individual exhibits in which any home economics student may make an entry. These exhibits show the work that the girl has been doing during the last year in her home economics class. The groups are (1) child care (2) wash dresses, (3) silk dresses (4) nutrition and (5) consumer education. Every girl may enter one exhibit in each class. Premiums will be awarded for first and second places.

As junior member in charge of the home economics department, I wish to extend an invitation to all home economic girls in the county to exhibit their work in this year's junior fair.
